1. When calculating the final grades, the above (original) final exam scores were rescaled up so that the median on the final exam would be 60, thereby matching roughly the two medians on the midterms.

2. This means (probabilistically speaking) that a large portion of the class will have the (rescaled up) final exam score overriding one or both of their (lower) midterm scores.

3. Quiz scores in sections were also rescaled to uniformize the median across all sections in the class.
